Water Out of Canton dries 4500 square foot cement basement

Mr. Rapid / Water Out of Canton, Ohio was contacted on by a Cleveland area hospital to dry out a 4500 square foot cement basement in a new construction build that was holding a high humidity from the constant rains and the structure not being sealed up properly. The general contractor knew that he was asking for trouble to hang drywall if the humidity level wasn't lowered. Within hours of being called, Mr. Rapid had two trailers on site and performed drying for four days. The architects, the hospital project manager, and the general contractor were happy with the results and drywall was going up, right on schedule. The Water Out® application was perfect considering the limited electric power and access to the basement.

"After the Disaster-Incompetence and Fraud" National Disaster Reconstruction Conference

Kelly Cressy will be presenting "After the Disaster- Incompetence and Fraud: The Importance of Using Experts" at the upcoming National Disaster Reconstruction Conference in New Orleans, June 17-18, 2009. www.NDREXPO.com

After a disaster, mitigation is the first step to rebuilding. Choosing a qualified contractor is one of the most important steps in the recovery process; choosing the wrong contractor could considerably increase the cost and duration of your project. This session will examine the common denominators of responsible and reputable restoration contractors and help you build a team of experts before the disaster strikes.

"I am thrilled to participate in the conference. This is the first year for this conference and it is a great opportunity to get Restoration Contractors, Insurance Professionals and Government Officials in the same place to discuss Catastrophe Management."

The goal of the conference is to provide a forum for Disaster Professionals to work together before tragedy strikes; to offer an opportunity for Disaster Professionals to learn more about each other, how they affect each other, how they can rely on each other, and how they can work together to ensure loss of life and property resulting from the next catastrophic event are minimized.

The cost to attend the conference, which will include a trade show, general sessions and classes is $99, however, if you enter the source code "Waterout" when you register you will receive a FREE registration.

I am looking forward to seeing you in New Orleans for the first year of the National Disaster Reconstruction Conference.
